

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

HAMLETT STILL CLAIMS IT.

Hon. Barksdale Hamlett was here Thursday looking after the hearing of the case involving the correction of the official certificate from this county, by which Jas. P. Lewis gained 100 votes in the Longview precinct. Judge Hanbery, after an exhaustive legal presentation of the case, in which Mr. Hamlett himself spoke, ordered the mistake to be corrected, which was promptly done by the election Commissioners. This increased Lewis' lead to 316 votes. An appeal was taken. The same day the Court of Appeals affirmed Judge Fryer's decision at Paducah, the effect of which was to reduce Hamlett's majority from 380 in McCracken to about the same that Lewis has in other counties. The race turns on the admission of votes recertified to in Lewis' favor, 101 in McCreary, 91 in Hart and 10 in Shelby. If these votes are counted Lewis wins. Mr. Hamlett says the original returns give him a small majority and that he will contest all changes, upon the ground that only in a formal contest can the returns be altered and then only by the courts.

Heavy snows are retarding military operations in the Balkans.

Justice Hughes has declined to be a Republican candidate for president.

The term of Chas. C. McChord, Kentucky members of the Interstate Commerce Commission, expires Dec. 31 and his reappointment is believed to be assured.

Throwing out the 180 padded votes in McCreary county gives Stanley a little more than 500 majority, a pretty comfortable lead as majorities go this year.

Bids Too High.

AUSTRIA ON ANCONA AFFAIR

Official Statement Concerning Sinking of Vessel Cabled State Department.

SHIP FLED WHEN WARNED

Denies Steamer Was Shelled After She Came to a Standstill.

Washington, Nov. 17.—American Ambassador Penfield today cabled the state department an official statement concerning the sinking of the Italian steamship Ancona, which had been handed him by the Austrian foreign office, apparently before he received the department's instructions, to seek the Vienna version of the tragedy.

The text of the communication virtually is identical to that given out in Vienna by the Austrian admiralty and sent to this country by wireless from Berlin. It says that the Ancona fled at full speed when a warning shot was fired across her bow and it denies the allegations of the Italian government that the steamer was shelled after she had come to a standstill and that other shots were fired at lifeboats and at persons swimming in the sea.

After the receipt of the report it became known that Secretary Lansing considered that the state department now had in its possession sufficient official information to form the basis of an inquiry of Austria-Hungary regarding its attitude toward the conduct of submarine warfare. The secretary indicated, however, that no communication would go forward until a reply had been made to questions submitted to the Austrian foreign office by Ambassador Penfield.

M. H. SMITH UNDER KNIFE

Operation, Though More Serious Than Was Expected, Proves Successful.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 19.—Milton H. Smith, of Louisville, president of the L. & N. road, underwent a serious operation at the Brady Urological Institute of the Johns Hopkins yesterday morning. He was on the table for more than two hours and the physicians found the case a little more serious than they had anticipated. A form of disease of the kidneys is Mr. Smith's trouble.

During the ordeal, Sidney Smith, the Louisville lawyer, and son of the patient, was in the adjoining room. The physicians announced that the operation was successful, but Mr. Smith will be forced to remain at the institution a little longer than was at first anticipated.

THE FAIR MUST LIVE

Committee Will Enlarge The Capital Stock and Meet Deficit.

HOPKINSVILLE NOT A QUITTER

Meeting at The Avalon Thursday Showed The Right Spirit.

The "Hopkinsville idea" pervaded the meeting at the Avalon, called to discuss the fair's financial difficulties. A small amount was due on the constructing cost of the buildings and the rainy week this year caused a deficit of more than $1,000. It is proposed to sell a few thousand dollars more stock of the authorized capital and clean up the companies debt and get things in shape for a bigger and better fair next year, to run a whole week so that one or two bad days would not ruin the fair.

The attendance of business men and farmers was gratifying and the determination to give the fair the needed support was universal.

Some stock was subscribed for by those present and a committee was named to have charge of the selling of enough stock to meet the requirements. It is believed that the people generally will take a proper interest in the matter to guarantee its success.

BURNED BY EXPLOSION

B. F. McClaid, Well Known Business Man, Sustains Serious Injuries.

Mr. B. F. McClaid was badly burned about the arms, hands and face Wednesday night by a lamp that exploded while he was blowing it out in the monument establishment of McClaid & Armstrong. He had taken the lamp into the shop to look after some matter in the stock room and after getting through was in the act of blowing the lamp out and putting it on a table when it blew up in his hand.

Burning oil was thrown upon him, making severe burns on the exposed parts of his person, flaring up into his face and burning off his eyebrows and eye lashes. J. M. Waltrip, who was with him, quickly extinguished the flames and kept them from setting the house on fire. He received prompt surgical attention, but has suffered intensely and his condition was not satisfactory yesterday. The worst burn is on his right hand, which was so badly burned that the nails dropped off. The burns on his face are not serious.

DEMOCRATS GO FREE

Whitley County Court Dismisses Cases Brought Against Them.

Whitley City, Ky., Nov. 17.—On the calling of the cases, the confederating charges against the six Democrats here were dismissed by County Judge Williams to-day at eleven o'clock.

On the charge of confederating and banding together to destroy private property, four Democrats were arrested November 7 at Whitley City, and later two others. The trouble arose from the fact that the office of the County Clerk, where the McCreary county ballots were kept, was broken into the Friday night after the election. It was discovered that the election certificates had been tampered with and that the number of votes originally cast for Morrow had been raised from 1,299 to 1,479.

Prior to this several Democrats, among whom were the men arrested had gone to the courthouse with the intention of guarding the ballot boxes. They were ordered away. Their dismissal lends weight to the charge by Democratic headquarters that the outrage was not committed by the Democrats because it was the Republicans who were benefited by the tampering with the returns.

The McCreary County Board of Election Commissioners met this afternoon and recertified the vote in the Governor's race, making Morrow's majority 180 less than had been certified previously. The excess vote, it was claimed by the Democrats, had been added after the election was held, and was the basis of a suit to compel recertification. The Democratic member of the Board refused to sign the certification as first made.

FATAL STROKE OF APOPLEXY

"JOHNSON COURT"

Great Improvement Made on North Main Residence Block.

The residence block on the east side of North Main street, between Second and Third streets, has been greatly improved recently and converted into a square to be called "Johnson Court."

The two lots fronting on Main street are owned by J. T. Johnson and Low Johnson. The former has made notable improvements in his property, including the erection of a handsome brick cottage on the east end of the lot, fronting on Third street. Low Johnson has completely remodeled the large two-story brick inherited from his late father, W. N. Johnson. A frame addition in the rear has been detached, moved further back and added to and is now a handsome cottage fronting on Second street. The main building has been enlarged with a brick addition containing eight or ten rooms, a heating plant put in and the whole house converted into a beautiful and up-to-date apartment house of fourteen rooms. This house is occupied by Mr. W. A. Cornette's family and the cottages by the families of Mr. M. L. Stockley and Mr. R. W. Boyd.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornette have a number of most desirable apartments to let. Through the center of the square a driveway is being constructed from Second to Third street. The improvements were made under the personal direction of the owners, at an outlay running well up into the thousands.

Weighty Decisions Reached By War Council in Paris.

SERBIANS STILL FALLING BACK

May Announce Policy in Gallipoli and Greece At Once.

London, Nov. 19.—The arrival of Lord Kitchener in the Near East has aroused the British troops on the Gallipoli peninsula to renewed activity, and Scottish troops, aided by two British monitors and a cruiser, have captured Turkish trenches and consolidated them, suffering in the attainment of their victory less than fifty men killed or wounded. The Turks lost at least 100 men.

The British War Council, which has been visiting France, has returned to London after having effected a closer working contact between the Entente Allies.

Unofficial dispatches credit the British with the defeat of the Bulgarians on the sector between the Vardovo and Rabrovo. The Bulgarians, however, having taken the Babuna Pass from the Serbians, are now said to be sweeping forward beyond Pilep toward Monastir, which is declared to have been virtually evacuated by the populace.

On the Russian front the situation generally is unchanged, but offensive movements by the Germans have broken down under the fire of the Russian guns.

The attitude of the Entente Allies toward Greece, from which country they are endeavoring to get a definite guarantee for the safety of the French, British and Serbian troops, and the whole military policy in the Near East, including the Dardanelles, will, it is expected, be made clear before the end of the present week.

WARSHIPS LEAVE BALTIC

Two Reports Tell of Passage of Powerful Squadron Toward the North Sea.

Copenhagen, Nov. 19.—Two squadrons, consisting of nineteen German warships, passed from the Baltic Sea into the Cattegat Wednesday morning.

The Cattegat is the strip of water separating Denmark from Sweden. It is on the way from the Baltic to the North Sea.

Another report says a flotilla of twenty-five German torpedo boats and a big cruiser passed Helsingborg, on the southwest coast of Sweden, at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning, proceeding at high speed northward.

Helsingborg is at the northern entrance to the sound which separates Sweden and Denmark.

Etiquette Rules.

The proper place for a woman in her own automobile or carriage or box at the opera is the right-hand corner.
People in this country are not so particular about this as are English and continentals, but it is a point worth observing by those who wish to give form and elegance to the daily conduct of life. Ceremony and punc-tillio can be carried too far, as in India, where the laws governing the manners and practices of the various castes are complicated to an exasperating point. But a society entirely devoid of etiquette is apt to be crude and ungraceful. To draw a line between that ceremonial which makes it a capital offense for a subject to look at the lama of Tibet and the mannerless state of a mining camp is a perfectly possible achievement.

Death to Snapdragons.

Though there is doubt if any dragons are living, snapdragons continue to die, especially if overwatered. One reader states she watered and tended her plants carefully, yet they turned yellow, died, and seemed to have no lateral roots when removed, coming out of the soil with little effort on the part of the puller. This clearly indicates what is known as stem rot, wholly due to too much water.

Discouraged.

Charles, aged six, had been asking his father and mother for some time for a mudguard for the small bicycle which he rode, but the weather conditions had been such that his parents thought the purchase could be deferred. One evening his mother noticed that he had not said his prayers as usual and asked him why.
"Well, mamma," said the lad, "I kept praying for that mudguard and when I found there was nuthin' stirrin' I just stopped prayin'."JOHNNY POE SERVED IN THE KENTUCKY MILITIASoldier of Fortune Killed in France Figured in Goebel Trouble.A real soldier of fortune was John Prentiss Poe, Jr., best known as "Johnny" Poe, famous Princeton football star, who was killed in battle in France several weeks ago.Poe was killed with his face to the enemy, when the British regiment in which he had enlisted, the famous "Black Watch," was practically annihilated in the British advance in the great forward movement of the Allies. The death he met was of the kind that his venturesome spirit had often pictured in fancy as a befitting end.For, throughout his short lifetime, Poe was a seeker after danger and adventure, a man to whom death and danger offered no terrors.After his career as a football star at Princeton, Poe, at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, enlisted in the American army, but was unfortunate in not being able to see actual service. Still seeking adventure, he enlisted in a regiment in the Philippines, where Aguinaldo was making trouble.Keenly disappointed at the lack of action he found in the Filipino insurrection, and knowing that the United States marine corps offered greater chances for excitement and adventure, he enlisted in that branch in 1903 by authority of the then Secretary of the Navy, John D.
Long, for the threatened war with Colombia over the Panama Canal strip. That war never materialized, and since Poe could not think of "soldiering" unless there was "something doing," he was discharged from the marine corps.Previously he had enlisted in the Kentucky State Militia during the Governor Goebel shooting trouble.
Even duty on the "dark and bloody ground" during those troublesome times didn't bring him the excitement he craved, and he one time bitterly confided to marine corps friends, "I believe that if I ever get to hell I'll find the fires banked."Still in pursuit of the elusive "strife," he became a captain in the Honduran army in 1907, when that country was at war with Nicaragua, and during the brief struggle got several thrills at the siege of Anapai and the battle of Buena Vista. It was after the conclusion of that war that Poe, with five other Americans, who were serving in the Honduran army, became involved in some sort of trouble with the Government authorities, and, for a time, their lives were in jeopardy.Later he engaged in various adventurous enterprises in many quarters of the world, and, immediately at the outbreak of the war in Europe, he appeared in London and offered himself as a private in the British army. He was accepted and assigned to the famous "Black Watch" regiment, and saw much active service, only to meet eventually the death that he had often braved during his short life.

WHERE REAL TROUBLE BEGAN

Argument Between Hogan, Casey and O'Brien Progressed Smoothly
Until Stranger Butted In.When a man just naturally wants trouble it is mighty easy to find an excuse for making it. According to Mike Hogan, Casey and O'Brien were having an argument of their own.
It had progressed to the extent that each had forgotten what it was about originally, and they were wholly oblivious of the gathering crowd until an urbane and genteel person in a frock coat put in."Come, come, my man," he said, gently plucking Casey by the sleeve.
"You don't want to fight. I can tell it by your looks. Your face is too benign.""Two be nine! Two be nine, is ut, ye scut?" bellowed Casey. "Me face is two be nine, is ut?"And there was where the real trouble began.—Louisville Times.

your ideas of future punishment are strictly orthodox."

Duruy's History of the World

Four splendid cloth volumes, full of portraits, sketches, maps, diagramsToday is the climax of a hundred years of preparation.
Read this timely, authoritative, complete, AND THE ONLY CONDENSED classic world history—of which over 2,000,000 copies have been sold in France alone—just what has taken place in the inner councils of Europe during the past one hundred years. Read in these entrancing pages how Russia has for years craftily been trying to escape from her darkness—to get a year-round open port, with its economic freedom.
Read how Germany and Austria, fearful of the monster's latent strength, have been trying to checkmate her and how they have pinned all in this last, supreme stake.

The Lesson of the Past

THIS master of the pen shows you the story that was Greece's and the present that was Rome's. He guides you through the Middle Ages, the picturesque old days of feudalism and the crusades;
through the Renaissance up to contemporary history, which Prof.
Duruy completes in brilliant manner. In the story of the past he the secrets of today. And you will understand them better when you get the Review of Reviews for a year—for the Review of Reviews will give you a same interpretation of the events that are taking place with such rapidity. It is not enough to read the daily news reports. Your ability to comprehend conditions, and to discuss them rationally depends on a true interpretation of the meaning and the "reason why" of events. In your mind you must bring order out of chaos—and the Review of Reviews will do it for you.Get the

EVELYN NESBIT SERVED WITH DIVORCE PAPERS

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, passing through here on a St. Louis train Saturday, was served with papers in the divorce suit instituted in the local courts by Harry K. Thaw. When officers boarded the train here Mrs. Thaw locked herself in the Pullman state room. The papers were pushed under the door. Deputy Sheriff O. W. Bradley, who had the matter in charge, saying the law had been complied with. Efforts had been made for two months to serve the divorce papers on Mrs. Thaw.

Trial Marriages a Fact.

(Chicago Herald.) Sixty days' experience in the divorce division has convinced Judge Victor Arnold, of the Circuit Court, that "trial marriages" have become possible and popular under the Illinois laws prohibiting remarriage within a year after divorce.

"There is no question in my mind but what these trial marriages are taking place every day," he announced after hearing the plea of Mrs. Mason for divorce from Walter T. Mason, whom she married in St. Joseph, Mich., within a year after his divorce.

"What is to be done I cannot say, but it is apparent that under this system people may get married as often as they wish, try it out and if not found desirable start suit for another divorce on the plea that the marriage took place within the prohibited period.

"One wife, who herself had remarried within the year of her divorce, came into my court petitioning for annulment of the marriage. If she gets this decree what is to prevent her doing it right over again."

"I venture to say that in the six days I have been sitting in the divorce court there have been forty of such cases, and I might add that I have yet to decide what will be the disposition of those cases. I do not know whether decrees should be granted or not," he added.

Association's Work.

The Great Tobacco Association which has sold hundreds of thousands of hogsheads of tobacco valued at between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 in the past eleven years and which advanced the price from an average of about 3 1/2 to approximately 9 1/2 per pound, has declared all agreements off as to receiving and selling tobacco of the 1915 crop, thus throwing the grower on his own resources as to the sale of his tobacco, a condition similar to that existing in 1902-3, before the advent of the Association.

The Board of Directors of the Plan's Protective Association met at its headquarters at Clarksville, on the 12th inst., to hear reports from various counties represented in the Association with reference to a resolution adopted at its last meeting to the effect that unless 135,000 acres was pledged by Oct. 23rd, last, and who had pledged for the 1915, 1916 and 1917 crops would be released from obligation thereunder, it being ascertained the said amount had not been pledged, all pledges were declared off.

The undersigned of the 1911 crop entrusted to the Association and will receive the best and most consistent with market conditions, the system and rules of the Association being strictly observed until a disposition of the last hogshead has been arranged for to the best advantage.

Marketing.

It is proposed to devote the afternoon of Thursday, January 7, 1916, of Farmers' Week, to a discussion of the problems of cooperative marketing. This discussion will be led by leading authorities on the subject from this and other institutions, and will be open to farmers and all interested therein. It is hoped that out of this discussion will develop definite plans for a constructive program of work on the marketing questions today which confront the farmers of Kentucky. You are cordially invited to attend this meeting and to participate in this discussion.

LONE PHEASANT

Minus His Mates Hunts a Home Near Marion.

The Crittenden county Record-Press contains this item about one of the pheasants released in Kentucky last year. There were one or two trios of these imported game birds for each county:

On going into the poultry yard Friday afternoon Mrs. Gwendolyn Ford Love, of near Sheridan, Ky., was surprised to find a strange bird with brilliant plumage walking proudly among her flock of brown leghorns.

The bird did not show a disposition to fly away, so Mrs. Love called her husband and together they viewed the beautiful creature until their curiosity overcame them and they approached too near, causing the bird to take flight. It flew only a short distance from the yard, alighted, and walked calmly and proudly away. The bird was about 3 feet from beak to end of tail, the tail forming one half the length. The body was about the size of a leghorn hen, the head and neck were a rich green color, resembling that of a duck, with a ring of white feathers at base of neck. The body and tail were copper colored with metallic luster. Its walk was proud and stately. The chickens did not seem frightened at its visitor, but would back away when it approached too near. Mrs. Love consulted an encyclopedia on returning to the house, and found the appearance of the visiting bird and the copper pheasants of Japan to be the same.

Game Warden Baker, of this county, says of the two trios released in the northern part of this county, two of the hens were known to have raised broods. One of these hens came with a broken leg, which was put in a splint and the bird recovered. This hen raised two broods. Of the other trio released further from town nothing has been reported.

DESTRUCTION OF BIRDS

Big Price Paid by Americans for Their Thoughtlessness.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Destruction of birds, according to Col. G. O. Shields, president of the League of American Sportsmen, costs the United States a billion dollars a year. Colonel Shields made the assertion in an address before the Chicago chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution day.

"Cotton growers," he said "lose $100,000,000 a year by the boll weevil. Why? Because the quails, the prairie chickens, the meadow larks and other birds, which were formerly there in millions, have been swept away by thoughtless men and boys."

The chinch bug costs wheat growers another $100,000,000, he said, and the Hessian fly $200,000,000.

"It takes more than 24,000 chinch bugs to weigh an ounce, and nearly 50,000 Hessian flies to weigh the same," continued the speaker. "A quail killed by an expert in Ohio had in its craw 1,200 chinch bugs. Another killed in a Kansas wheat field had 2,000 Hessian flies."

Colonel Shields added that potato growers pay $17,000,000 a year for spraying poisons and remarked that a quail slain in Pennsylvania had 127 potato bugs in its craw. He said that Mrs. Margaret M. Nice, of the faculty of the Massachusetts State University, after long study, estimated that a quail destroys 75,000 bugs and 6,000,000 weed seeds annually.

Rattlesnake Kills Eagle.

An eagle, the wings of which measured more than seven feet from tip to tip, was worried recently by a mother rattlesnake near Tarentum, Pa., when the pirate of the air tried to seize several little rattlers which the mother was protecting. The eagle swooped to the ground and attempted to seize several of the baby snakes in its talons. Before it could rise, however, the mother had struck, burying her fangs in the eagle's breast. The big bird rose to a dizzy height, faltered and plunged to the earth, dead.

The Millennium.

Nobody has the faintest idea when, if ever, the war of competition is to cease. It may be that sometime men will live only in thoughts, not deeds—in a beatific contemplation of their own ideals. Sometime the valleys may be exalted and the mountains brought low, and we shall live on a high plateau of co-operative equality, when, to supply his wants, a man will have only to touch a button and the machinery of government will do the rest.—"Truth—Business and Political," Henry D. Estabrook, in National Magazine.

An Englishman has invented gyroscope to prevent a bicycle falling as it is being ridden.

TORTOISE OUTLIVES THE HARE

Rabbit May Get to Be Five Years of Age, but the Other May Reach Four Hundred.

The ages of living things vary from a moment to hundreds of years. The tortoise is said to take the prize among all land animals for length of years. This animal lives, under favorable conditions, 300 or 400 years. One died in London in 1906 which was said to be at least 350 years old. The crocodile, too, sometimes lives to be 300.

The tortoise has to give in to the whale, however, for the latter often lives to the age of five hundred. That is probably the oldest age reached by any creature which exists upon the earth today.

The common little English sparrow lives longer than most of us imagine. Scientists tell us that some of them get to be forty years old. This is a ripe old age for so small a bird. The robin, which is much larger, lives only ten or twelve years. The eagle holds the record for age among the birds. It may live to be 100.

The elephant lives, on the average, about as long as the eagle. The oldest age among our common domestic animals is reached by the horse, which often reaches 30 or more. This is practically the same as the age of lions and camels. The cow may live to be 25, the dog 15, the rabbit about five. Most of us know, however, of cases in which common beasts or birds have lived to much greater ages than are allotted them ordinarily.

Holding Her Yet.

Memphis, Tenn., November 19.—Given a baby to "hold for a few minutes" while its mother went into store, Miss Leota Williamson, daughter of a prominent local contractor, has applied to the Juvenile Court for permission to adopt the youngster.

Miss Williamson was waiting for a street car when a fashionably dressed woman approached her, placed a baby in her arms and asked her to hold it for a few minutes. The mother did not return. On the infant's clothing was pinned a note, which read: You can have this baby; her name is Roberta."

Franchise Held Void.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 19.—The Court of Appeals has held that a period of four and one-half years intervening between the granting of a franchise to the Princeton Electric Light and Power Company and the exercise of the franchise is unreasonable; that the company is operating under a void franchise, and gives it a year from the date of judgment in the Caldwell Circuit Court to vacate the streets of Princeton. This decision was rendered in an opinion reversing the Caldwell Circuit Court in the suit of the city against the company.

Four Americans Killed.

AN EVENING OFF

By LOUISE OLIVER.

Priscilla laid Gerald junior in his crib, tilted the bottle to just the proper angle and snatched a soft little handkerchief out of her belt just in time to prevent a very bitter tear from dropping down on to the wee pink cheek on the pillow.

Gerald senior had just gone out, slamming the door as most males do, considering the same a fitting snail for a marital row. This was their first quarrel, and Priscilla felt that the earth was shaking under her feet.

She slipped into a kimono and sat down by the window. It was not quite dark, but the street below was very quiet; so was the little flat—just a soft, contented sound from the crib in the corner. The silence added to her loneliness. Of course little Gerald was the dearest, sweetest, most precious darling in the wide world, but after she had cooed and kissed and patted and rocked all day, to say nothing of the ceremonious bath and airing in the perambulator, she felt it her privilege to associate with people of her own age, after baby had settled himself to sleep all night; preferably Gerald senior, but—and this was what the trouble was all about—he had a drug store, and no one could be trusted with the precious prescription factory from 8 a. m. until 11 p. m. daily but himself. Priscilla was left to amuse herself as best she could.

Suddenly someone threw up a window in the building next door and strains of music came floating over to her. She raised her own window in order to hear better. It was a waltz, and, looking up, she caught a glimpse now and then of passing dancers.

Gerald junior was sleeping now. She took away the bottle, covered him snugly—and then she went to her desk. Long ago she had tucked away an engraved card somewhere in a pigeonhole. She found it under the baby's weight chart.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald St. Clair
STUDIO DANCING
Classes Tuesday and Friday
From 8 until 11.
Private Lessons as Arranged.
Nestor Building, Philadelphia.

How she had coaxed Gerald to go! He used to love dancing! How marriage changed men! It was different with women. They didn't lose all romance in two short years.

Then she thought of something. Why not go to dancing school alone? Many women did!

She rolled baby's bed as quietly as she could to the window and pulled the shade to the top. If she left a bright light burning in the room she could look over at him after every dance to make sure he was all right.

In a few minutes she was dressed in a year-old white gown and black slippers and stockings, but she felt like Cinderella in satin and crystal going to her first ball.

The preliminaries were a little trying to timid Priscilla, but the delight of dancing more than made up for the effort. As she had planned, after every dance she went to the window for a peep at the baby, who lay, as she had left him, sound asleep in his bed close to the window.

Priscilla laughed softly to herself. How splendidly her plan had worked! Two hours of pleasure like this once a week would keep her going hundreds of lonely evenings at home alone. "What Gerald does not know does not hurt him!" she reflected smiling. "I'm not doing anyone in the world a bit of harm."

The class work on a new one-step took a little longer than usual, and by the time it was over Priscilla was frantic with anxiety. She made straight for the window and looked down at baby Gerald's window.

She put her hand suddenly to her mouth to stifle a scream. She was just in time to see two masculine arms lift baby from his bed and disappear.

She had locked the door and no one else but Gerald had a key. But Gerald had no pepper-and-salt clothes, and the two arms that held her precious baby were encased in rough twined!

Priscilla ran! Like a flash she was down the stairs, out on the street, then up the stairs of her own building. The door of her apartment was standing open and—Gerald junior was gone!

She tried to reach the telephone, but the floor was waving and everything was dancing before her eyes. She sat down an instant until things should get steadier—then quietly fainted away.

The next morning Gerald senior sat holding one of Priscilla's hands. Baby Gerald lay cooling in his crib and everything seemed delightfully peaceful and happy to the little woman in bed. "If you don't mind, Gerald, dear, will you please tell me all over again how you rushed home for baby when you got the message your grandmother was passing through town and wanted to see her only great-grandson?"

So he told her again. "Whose coat had you on, dear?" "Sam's, my clerk's. I had only ten minutes to get to the train and in my rush I got the wrong one."

"And you're sure you don't mind my going to dancing school?" "Yes, I do mind! It was a shame you had to go alone. After this we'll get Sully to stay Friday nights to look after the baby and we'll go fox-trotting together."

Do It Again, Boys.

The Princeton (Ky.) High School writes to the Evening Post that it would like to arrange a game with any high school team in Kentucky. It had a game with Hopkinsville High School, but it was canceled. Hopkinsville has beaten Princeton for the past three years, and just when the Princetons were on the verge of getting revenge the game was sidetracked, so they say. Princeton fans are keenly disappointed over the cancellation of this contest.

Hopkinsville is no doubt perfectly willing to defeat them again if nothing else will do them.

Dr. Crenshaw's Paper.

Dr. J. W. Crenshaw, by invitation, read a paper before the Hopkinsville Academy of Medicine on last Monday night. The title of the paper was "In An Epidemic of Diphtheria." The theme was a timely selection, as diphtheria is now epidemic in Kentucky, and the paper was discussed at length by the members of the society. Dr. Crenshaw was made an "honorary member" of the society. —Record.

POPULAR MECHANICS MAGAZINE FOR DECEMBER

The mission of mechanics is to link the races of men by practical modes and means of communication. When, a few days ago, a person at Arlington, Va., spoke by wireless telephone, to an operator at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, the greatest obstacle in the path of progress was removed. Soon the pioneers of civilization, toiling in the remote and dangerous regions of the earth, will be no longer isolated, but may speak at any time into the quickened ears of compatriots and friends. An account of this wonderful achievement is published in the December number of the Popular Mechanics Magazine. The article is well illustrated with both photographs and sketches. Another interesting wireless story in the same issue describes the fall of the Tufts College tower, 300 ft. high, the day after its formal dedication. The December Popular Mechanics Magazine contains in all 244 articles and 369 illustrations.

Tattooing.

In her low rocking chair,
Down in her wavy hair,
Mabel sits, debonair,
Cheerily chatting;
Eyes wherein Cupid lurks,
Weaving his cunning quirks,
Down-bent, the while she works
Over her tattooing.

Ah, such a winning sight
For an enamored wight!
Round her a golden light
Lovingly lingers;
Time of sun, time of showers,
Time of frost, time of flowers,
I could stand hours and hours
Watching her fingers!

Dainty in shape and size,
See how her shuttle flies—
Is, in such skilful wise,
Shifted and shaken!
Put in parenthesis,
All I need say is this:
(Mabel's for me the Miss,
Or I'm mistaken!)
Out and in, in and out,
How the threads whisk about,
While my poor heart in doubt
Keeps pit-a-patting!
Does she dream, does she guess,
What I must here confess,
That I'm caught in duress Tight in her tattooing!

Armless Judge.

David Moylan has an indomitable will. Eighteen years ago a railroad switchman, today he is a councilman, practicing attorney and municipal judge of Cleveland, Ohio. In the late nineties an accident deprived him of his right arm. Not to be discouraged he was soon back at the same old stand. Seven years later another accident cost him his left arm. It was then that Moylan turned his attention to law and worked with all his might and brain until he mastered the subject. At the law examination he answered the questions with the pen between his teeth. After practicing a while he was four years ago elected to the city council, which office he has since held. In the recent election he ran for municipal judge and was elected by a good plurality.

WOMEN AS CAR CONDUCTORS

Later Question That Seems to Apply to Cause More or Less Trouble in England.

In London the question of employing women as street car conductors has been put forward by one of the tramway companies, but the police authorities refuse to issue to them licenses, saying that already they have issued an adequate number of licenses to men to fill the vacancies owing to enlistments. So many difficulties and complexities surround the whole affair that there is reason to believe that a more serious view of the problem is taken by the police authorities.

The most important obstacle to the scheme is the opposition of the trade unions.

A Scotland Yard official said the other day that "If women were licensed as conductors during the war, they would undoubtedly remain afterward, and it must be remembered that the tramways are a public service. While that fact should not debar women from performing the work, if they are capable of doing it, there is no desire to encourage the displacing of men and the consequent trouble in the labor world. Besides, it is safe to say that all the men who have wanted to join the colors have been able to do so, and it would not be fair to exercise a form of compulsory service on men of a certain calling by ousting them from their employment."

PROUD OF HIS CITIZENSHIP

Will of John Paul Jones Showed a Proper Appreciation of His Adopted Country.

It is well from time to time to give special appreciation and honor to heroes who have given great service to their country. The centennial of Commodore Perry was fitly celebrated. Another naval hero who should be fitly remembered is John Paul Jones, the first to raise the Stars and Stripes on an American ship, the first to receive a salute to American independence at Quiberon bay, three years before Yorktown. John Paul Jones was the founder of the American navy. To it he gave much of his private property, paying sailors when the government could not, paying also for repairs and provisions. His victory in the battle of the Bonhomme Richard and Serapis had much influence in the gaining of independence. After our Revolutionary war was over he served other countries. Titles were showered on him and he was gratified, but when he made his will he wrote: "I, John Paul Jones, an American citizen."—Milwaukee Journal.

INNOCENT CAUSE OF IT.

"How did you happen to leave your last place?"

"The house was burned down, ma'am."

"Well, of course you were not to blame for that."

"No'm. The lady what hired me wouldn't furnish fat kindlin' an' I had to start the fires with kerosene."

MORE APT TO LAUGH.

"You wouldn't be angry if I asked you to marry me, would you, Miss Peacher?"

"No, indeed, Mr. Fatwit. In fact all my friends say I have a keen sense of humor."

THE FATAL FLATNESS.

"What's bothering you?"

"Motor car," replied Mr. Chug-gus.

"Flat tire?"

"No. Flat pocketbook."

HER TURN.

Mabel—Are you going to the whist club this afternoon?

Alice—No; it's my turn to stay away and be talked about.

EXTENSIVE CHANGES.

"Many changes in your apartment house this month?"

"Yes. Seven graphophones moved out and one pinola."

THEIR STYLE.

A Splendid Tonic.

Cora, Ky.—Mrs. Iva Moore, of this place, says: "I was an weak, I could hardly walk. I tried Cardui, and was greatly relieved. It is a splendid tonic. I have recommended Cardui to many friends, who tried it with good results." Testimony like this comes unsolicited, from thousands of earnest women, who have been benefited by the timely use of that successful tonic medicine, Cardui. Purely vegetable, mild, but reliable, Cardui well merits its high place in the esteem of those who have tried it. It relieves women's pains, and strengthens weak women. It is certainly worth a trial. FIND RICH ALUM DEPOSITS

Discovery That Will Materially Add to the Wealth of a Section of Australia.

The Myall river in the state of New South Wales debouches into the bay at Port Stephens, which is 35 miles north of Newcastle. Upon a recent trip up the river there was noticed on the wharf at a landing some six miles from Port Stephens a pile of what appeared to be lumps of marble. On investigation it was found, however, that the white stone was alunite, and there were about sixty tons of it in the pile. Vessels of moderate draft can proceed up the Myall river as far as the landing mentioned, but beyond that point freight can only be carried on barges.

Thirty miles north of Port Stephens is a small village called Bullahdelah, situated close to what is known as the Alum mountain. This mountain is composed entirely of alunite, and it is the only known deposit in Australia.

The stone yields on an average 80 per cent of alum. According to the statistics for the mining industry of New South Wales, the output of alum from the years 1856 to 1908 was valued at $450,000 and for 1908 to the end of 1913, $190,000. Since the year 1908 about 1,200 tons of the rock have been taken out annually and shipped to England for treatment, where the alum is extracted much more cheaply than is possible here.—Consul Lucien N. Sullivan, Newcastle, New South Wales.

WAS BARRED

Monk—What's up, Zebe? Wouldn't they enter you for the races?
Zebe—Nope. Told me I was barred.

PROPER DEFINITION.

The old man came into the dimly-lighted parlor just in time to catch the young man in the act of kissing his daughter.

"Sir," said the stern parent, "what do you mean by that kind of business?"

"Pardon me," rejoined the y. m., calmly, "but it isn't business at all; it's the pleasantest kind of pleasure, I assure you."

MORE LIKE THE FOOT.

Canvasser—Sir, you are the head of the house, I presume?

Peckem—Your presumption is quite natural, but you have another guess coming.

Canvasser—Beg pardon, but I don't quite catch your drift?

Peckem—Well, my wife says I'm always kicking, and as I have to foot the bills, you can draw your own conclusion.

A RELIEF.

"Charley does scold a great deal around the house," said young Mrs. Torkins. "But in a way it's a relief."

"A relief?"

"Yes. When he's cross he isn't trying to tell funny stories and keeping me guessing as to when I ought to laugh."

TOO MUCH FOR THE PROF.

"Is it possible to square a circle?" asked the youthful student.

"Not if it is a sewing circle," replied the old professor, as his mind reverted to an afternoon when he had remained at home to help his wife entertain one, only to be silenced by the verbal display of numerous family skeletons in the neighborhood.

THE NATURAL RESULT.

"Was there much mourning in society among the girls when the catch of the season was engaged?"

"Well, all the belles were told."

MISINTERPRETED.

She—The new shoes are going to be higher.

He—Then, my dear, you'll have to get your old ones patched.

SPECIAL TO WOMEN

The most economical, cleansing and germicidal of all antiseptics is

Paxtine

A soluble Antiseptic Powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

As a medicinal antiseptic for douches in treating catarrh, inflammation or ulceration of nose, throat, and that caused by feminine ill it has no equal. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. has recommended Paxtine in their private correspondence with women, which proves its superiority. Women who have been cured say it is "worth its weight in gold." Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 19. — No changes have occurred in the Lewis-Hamlett race for Secretary of State. The returns as certified here include every county but McCracken.

These showed 206,707 for Lewis and 205,560 for Hamlett, until supplementary certifications of 101 votes for Lewis were received from McCracken, 91 from Hart, 10 from Shelby and 100 from Christian, giving Lewis a lead of 512. The unofficial majority for Hamlett in McCracken is placed at 352.

Both Hamlett and Lewis are preparing to fight the case to the limit. The official canvass of votes will be made Monday.

Watchful Waiting Won.

Mr. Richard G. Campbell, of Rock Castle, and Mrs. Ada Jones, widow of J. Will Jones, were united in marriage at three o'clock last Thursday afternoon. The marriage took place in Cadz at the home of the bride's cousin, Mr. Luther Sanders, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. D. M. Sparks.

There is a tinge of romance in this union in the fact that their marriage is the culmination of a friendship that started when both were quite young. More than twenty years ago the groom went West, and the bride was united in marriage to her first husband. — Record.

A year ago yesterday there was a snowfall of three inches. Some snow and sleet fell yesterday, so we may conclude that the weather has about become normal.

Hospital Ship Sunk.

Dover, Nov. 19.—The hospital ship Anglia, with about 300 wounded men aboard, in addition to the crew, nurses and attendants, bound from France for Dover, struck a mine in midchannel Wednesday and sank. Nearly 100 men, most of them seriously wounded, lost their lives.

The collier Lusitania, which was near by at the time of the accident, immediately went to the Anglia's aid, and her boats had just been lowered when she also struck a mine and foundered. All her crew were saved.

A patrol vessel rescued three hundred of the Anglia's passengers and crew, including some nurses. A number of bodies were recovered.

Saved Life of Suffering.

The Bollinger baby, a defective infant, whose mother, on professional advice, decided that it should not undergo an operation which probably would have saved its life, died at the German-American Hospital in Chicago.

Losses in Battle.

The New York Sun publishes an instructive article from an officer in the medical department of the United States army relative to the percentage of those who die from wounds received in the battle during the present war as compared with other wars, the conclusion being that the fate of the wounded is better in this war and a larger percentage of those stricken recover.

To go back only two centuries, this authority shows that of those wounded at the battle of Blenheim in the early years of the eighteenth century, one out of three died. During the wars of Napoleon one man out of each four wounded in battle died. In the Crimean war five out of each wounded men recovered. In the Franco-Prussian war of 1870 there was one death out of each twelve wounded men. In the present war it is estimated that nineteen out of twenty wounded men recover.

These figures, of course, do not include those killed outright by shot or shell. The percentage of those who recover varies curiously little in the great wars of the last two hundred years. Of those stricken on the battlefield just about the same percentage succumbed at once, or died before medical attention reached them, from injuries suffered from the old muskets of 1706 as from the shrapnel shells and machine guns of 1915.

An interesting table in the same article shows the total of "battle casualties," as gathered from the best authorities, of some of the wars of recent date. The English fought a series of historic engagements in Spain under the Duke of Wellington in Napoleon's time, but only 23,750 men were actually killed or wounded on the battlefield. In the Crimean war of 1855 many thousands of Englishmen died of disease or exposure, but the battle casualties only 14,450.

The Boer war was considered a hard contest while it was going on, but the total battle casualties of the British in that war foot up to only 28,700. At the time the officer prepared the table the battle casualties in all the British armies during the present war amounted to 336,946, showing conclusively how much greater is this war in point of loss than the British nation has ever engaged in.

Battle casualties in the Union army during our Civil war amounted to 367,000. Of these 85,887 resulted in deaths. Total deaths in the Union army from all causes, including disease, totalled approximately 350,000, or more than double the deaths from all causes that have so far taken place in the British armies.

During the stubbornly contested Russo-Japanese war of 1905 the battle casualties of the Russians numbered 171; the Japanese losses, largely because of their attacks upon the fortifications of Port Arthur, exceeded those of the Russians and totalled 220,000.

The battle casualties of the Germans in the Franco-Prussian war of 1870 reached 117,000, a mere fraction of the loss that nation has suffered in the present struggle.

The battle casualties of the Germans in the Franco-Prussian war of 1870 reached 117,000, a mere fraction of the loss that nation has suffered in the present struggle.

Missed The Train.

Richard Travers, an Essanay man, narrowly escaped being killed while jumping a freight train in a movie scene at Niles Center, Ill. He missed the train while playing a hobo role and one arm was gashed and the bones in the hand broken as he saved himself.
